Notice about impacts of an earthquake on September 6
on Kyosemi Corporation

At 3:08 am on September 6, 2018, Kyosemi Corporaion's Eniwa Plant and its Kamisunagawa Plant were struck by a 6.7-magnitude earthquake centered in the southern part of Hokkaido, Japan's northern island.

Though Eniwa Plant and Kamisunagawa Plant stopped temporarily its operation after the earthquake because of a major electric outage across Hokkaido caused by the earthquake, both Eniwa Plant and Kamisunagawa Plant resumed usual operations from September 10, 2018. No serious damage has occurred to Kyosemi Corporation's employees, buildings, equipment, production apparatus, materials or stored products.

We apologize for the inconvenience in connection with the earthquake and thank you for your understanding and cooperation.
